

Armed Kidnapers Gets $75,000; Frees Woman In Arizona Mountains

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A giant police force combing the rugged Superstition Mountains picked up fresh tracks of an armed and dangerous kidnaper early today.

The Pinal County sheriff's office reported that search parties came across the footprints while the main group of searchers were heading off in a different direction through barren, rocky terrain.

The tracks are following a power line and are headed back toward a main highway, between Apache Junction and Florence Junction.

Captive 29 Hours
Bloodhounds are being rushed to the area.

The sheriff's office said they represent the best lead that has been found since the trail was lost last night.

A mounted sheriff's posse was moving up the slopes of the Superstitions when the break came.

They are part of a vast police network of planes, patrol cars, and ground parties using bloodhounds in seeking the abductor of Mrs. Evelyn Ann Smith.

The attractive 23-year-old wife of a wealthy Phoenix pipe and steel company executive was seized by the man Wednesday afternoon and released Thursday after a $75,000 ransom was paid.

She was held captive for 29 hours, most of the time in the rugged Superstitions, site of the lost Dutchman gold mine. Police picked up the kidnaper's tracks late Thursday and followed them five miles before they disappeared in the cactus-studded wasteland.

He is believed to have doubled back.

Good Hiding Places
The search area is very rugged. It is dotted with old mine shafts that would make excellent hiding places. There are numerous trails but almost no water holes. Thirteen persons have lost their lives in the area.

Three planes were put into the air today, the Arizona Highway Patrol has blocked all highways and reserve manpower in patrol cars is standing by.

Officers from two counties, the Phoenix police department and the FBI are participating in the operation.

Mrs. Smith, a mother of two children, was unharmed when released in the shadow of the Superstitions Thursday.

Her ordeal ended when her husband Herbert struggled up a hill to her side after a masked man had fired at him with a rifle.

Smith, following instructions contained in two notes, had taken $75,000 in $100, $50, $20 and $10 bills into the purple-tinted Superstitions towering over the central Arizona desert.

The kidnaper picked up the valise containing the ransom and vanished into the brush and cactus. He was carrying a rifle and a revolver.

With Mrs. Smith safe at home with her husband and two children, FBI agents and state and local officers circled the area where the ransom was collected. Roadblocks were thrown up. Desert-wise sheriffs' deputies threaded through the rugged country with bloodhounds.

They were hunting a short man described as 35 to 40 years old, with light brown hair, muscular arms, large mouth and ears and close-set eyes.

Note In Golf Bag

Mrs. Smith told officers that her kidnaper had said he was dying of cancer and "pulled the job so I can have one last fling."

The kidnaping was replete with bizarre elements. The ransom note was placed in the side pocket of Smith's golf bag, which was left at a desert service station. A note of instructions on payment of the ransom was delivered to Smith's home in a bouquet of roses. Two other notes were left under piles of rocks which designate mining claim boundaries. The ransom note warned one of these sites was mined with dynamite.

Mrs. Smith, sunburned and frightened but otherwise in good condition, gave officers this statement upon reaching her home:

When she came out of the beauty parlor at 1 p.m. Wednesday a strange man with a gun was hiding in her car. She said she screamed, honked the horn and struggled but didn't attract any attention.

Windshield Pits Are No Mystery, Scientists Find

SEATTLE (AP)—Take a long-time accumulation of pockmarks in your windshield, mix well with sudden public interest in the matter and you have the probable recipe for this spring's windshield-pitting epidemic.

Two University of Washington scientists reported today.

The recipe was the result of an intensive investigation into every reported possible cause of the pitting—from sandflea eggs to the H-bomb—conducted by Harley H. Bovee, a research chemist, and Ross N. Kusian, director of the university's Environmental Research Laboratory.

Normal Road Damage
The sandflea eggs and H-bombs were ruled out quickly in the deadpan report.

The facts, the scientists said, support only a "normal road damage theory." They based this on these findings:

1. The windshield damage is virtually all of an "impact" type, caused by some hard object striking the glass with sufficient force to chip, pit or crack it.

2. Small black spheres about the size of a pinhead found on car windshields and elsewhere "are a unique type of unburned fuel known as 'cenospheres.' These, the report said, result from improper combustion of small particles of bituminous coal and are 'incapable of pitting windshields by impact or otherwise.'"

Impact Only Cause

3. The windshield pits cannot be duplicated in the laboratory or under controlled field conditions by any means other than impact.

4. "Although there is a considerable body of testimony from reputable witnesses to the effect that windshields were pitted by some mysterious cause in the space of a few minutes or hours during the 'epidemic,' it has not been possible to substantiate a single one of these statements by scientific observation. Actually, the observed facts tend to contradict such statements."

"The large number of reports were then due to people looking closely at their windshields for the first time," the scientists said.

Pere Marquette Memorial Plans Run Into Snags

LUDINGTON (AP) — Efforts to set up a monument to honor Pere Jacques Marquette just don't seem to be going smoothly.

The Pere Marquette Memorial Assn. of Ludington now is asking the State Conservation Commission to deed back the two-acre Marquette State Park.

The memorial group and the commission presumably can't agree on how best to honor the Jesuit explorer-priest whose name is large in Michigan's history.

The tiny park marks the spot where Father Marquette died 300 years ago.

Last week the commission refused to approve plans of the Ludington group for a memorial at the death site.

The group was ready to put up a 16-foot metal cross, donated by the Dow Chemical Co., on a 24-foot base to be constructed by the Mason County Allied Labor Council.

A contributors' fund of $1,697 from Marquette university students, accumulated over a period of years, was to help the financing.

Work already has started on the foundation.

The commission, however, wants to create a big park of 60 acres as a tourist attraction on the Lake Michigan shore.

But the Ludington memorial group took the position that sorting out the project would require 20 years of time. And, the group says, it has already spent 20 years in its memorial effort.

The memorial group, meeting Thursday, decided to sponsor a pageant next summer depicting the life of Pere Marquette. This will be a part of Mason County's centennial celebration.

Find Remedy for Major Cause of Power Loss in Automobiles

Gasoline additive overcomes harmful effects of deposits. Gives up to 15% more power and up to 2½ times longer spark plug life

A big majority of engines today are failing to give all the power they could—by as much as 15% according to automotive engineers.

They explain that lead and carbon deposits reduce engine performance by holding power captive. In combustion chambers these deposits become red hot and pre-fire fuel—before the piston is in the proper firing position. This condition, called pre-ignition by automotive engineers, sets power working against itself, wastefully.

Twin power robbers

These same deposits also form on spark plugs, and short-circuit them to cause misfiring. These twin power robbers prevent full engine performance, especially when power is needed most—on hills, and when accelerating.

Research scientists of the Shell Oil Company report that the new additive blended into Shell Premium Gasoline and sold under the trademark TCP, releases power hitherto held captive by engine deposits. It does this, they explain, by "fireproofing" deposits in combustion chambers to stop pre-ignition. It also makes the spark plug deposits non-conductive and stops misfiring.

Effects quickly noted

TCP additive acts quickly, Shell engineers state. Automobile engines act as if they had been given a tune-up by the time two tankfuls of Shell Premium Gasoline containing TCP have been consumed, they say. This gasoline is available in this area at Shell Dealer Stations.

Truck Inspections To Be Ended Today

Safety truck check, annual truck inspection effort undertaken nationally by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, started here June 7 and will be concluded today by Teamsters Union Local 328, A. F. of L., according to Arnold Alsten, union spokesman.

Teamster members are working in two-man teams checking trucks and drivers at weighing stations, rail terminals, loading docks, truck stops and other spots. The purpose of the check is to determine whether trucking equipment in use meets safety standards of the Interstate Commerce Commission and safety clauses in Teamster contracts.

Checkers also ask drivers whether their contracts-in-force are being observed. Teamster contracts include provisions stipulating maximum hours and other conditions designed to promote highway safety. The Union standing of the drivers are verified as well.

The Escanaba effort is part of a nationwide safety project conducted annually since 1949 by Teamsters, Dave Beck, general president of the Teamsters, commended trucking lines for their "public spirited and invaluable

Recommend City-Owned Site For Power Plant

The Escanaba Planning Commission last night adopted a motion recommending to the City Council that it make a city-owned area on the north bay shore available as a site for an electric generating plant.

But it stipulated that the recommendation is "not to be construed as a recommendation from us to make this property available to Alger-Delta Electric Cooperative Association alone."

The City Council had requested a recommendation from the Planning Commission on the question of a site for a power plant in connection with the city's negotiations with Alger-Delta for a new power supply source.

Site Within City

Alger-Delta proposes to construct a power plant, financed by a loan from the Rural Electrification Administration, and to supply the city with "surplus" power for 10 years.

The city invited Alger-Delta to consider locating the plant in Escanaba, and Alger-Delta engineers said a site on the bay shore north of the C. & N. W. Railway are docks would be suitable.

At a previous Planning Commission meeting the Council's Power Advisory Committee reported that additional alternate sites should be considered, and decision was delayed to last night's meeting.

150 Shoreline Feet

The area recommended for a power plant site is at the extreme north end of the city-owned shoreline and is located just south of the Escanaba Coal Dock property. The city owns approximately 1,000 feet of shoreline.

The recommendation is to make 150 feet of shoreline available, extending back from the shore and northward to include an area of about 15 acres.

Planning Commissioner Eldridge Baker moved and Commissioner Warren Morrison supported the recommendation. "Yes" votes were cast by Commissioners Baker, Morrison, Larry Fleming, Austin Stegath, William Anderson and Chairman Jesse Pomazal; "No" votes by Commissioners Joseph Ivens and Dale Vinette.

Not Just Alger-Delta

The motion on stipulating that the recommended site was to be available for power generation, and not to be construed as a recommendation for sale of the site expressly to Alger-Delta, was made by Commissioner Vinette, supported by Commissioner Stegath.

The only "No" vote was by Commissioner Ivens.

The Commission unanimously adopted a motion that in development "any dredging, slips, and so forth, in the (city-owned) area be conducted in conjunction with a Port Authority to gain maximum advantage of all possible facilities."

Four other sites, including the Reiss Coal Dock and a shoreline area just south of it, owned by the C. & N. W. Railway, are all privately owned, zoned for industrial use, and the Planning Commission noted by motion that their "use for power sites is not objectionable to the Planning Commission as long as provisions are made to keep them from becoming a public nuisance."

Name Committees

In discussion the Commission indicated that the Reiss Coal Dock and adjacent sites might be close enough to the downtown Escanaba area to create "a fly ash problem" from the power plant boilers.

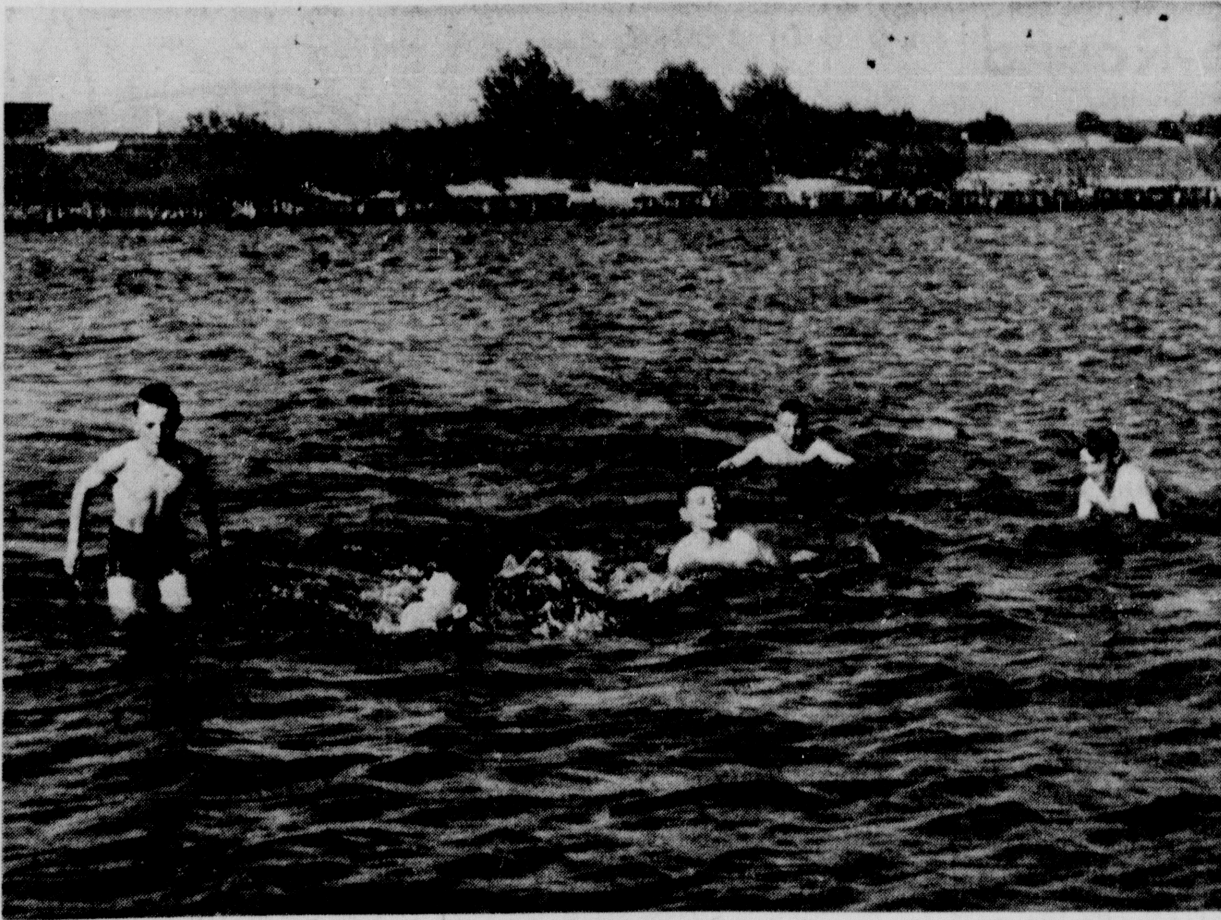

Robert Clayton, city planning director, reported that in consulting with local officials of the C. & N. W. Railway he was advised that the railway is expected to retain its shore property because of the development that may come with the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The Commission also adopted a motion offering the Escanaba Port Authority the information and material it has available.

In other business the Planning Commission set the date of July 8 for an informal public hearing on proposed changes under revision of the zoning ordinance.

Chairman Pomazal appointed standing committees for the year. The committees and their chairmen are as follows:

Architectural—Vinette; Capital Improvements—Stegath; Public Relations—Fleming; Recreation—Baker; Industrial—Ivens; Schools—Anderson; Subdivision—Morrison; Transportation—Baldwin; Zoning—Pomazal.

Candidates Must File By June 15

Partisan candidates for the August primary election ballot have until 4 p. m. Tuesday, June 15, to file nominating petitions at the office of County Clerk William Butler at the Court House in Escanaba.

Sheriff William E. Miron, Democrat, was the first candidate to file. His nominating petitions were received at the office of the Delta County clerk Thursday.

County Clerk Butler, Democrat, also filed his petitions yesterday. Prosecuting Attorney Nicholas P. Chapekis, Democrat, said that his petitions are being circulated and that he will file as a primary candidate.

County Treasurer Ann Villeneuve, Democrat also will file, she announced.

Rep. Einar E. Erlandsen, Democrat, Delta county representative in the state legislature, today said that his nominating petitions as a primary candidate will be filed Monday.

To date there is no indication that the local Democrats will have rival candidates in the primary election.

Dog Owners Warned To Control Animals

"Keep your dogs under control or appear in court and pay a fine," the sheriff's department warned dog owners of the surrounding townships this morning.

"A large number of dogs are running at large, resulting in the destruction of property. Property owners are now signing complaints with the possibility of dog owners appearing in court and being fined," Sheriff Miron said.

The Canary Islands, from which the birds were named, got their name from huge dogs (canis) found on the islands in early times.

Report 98 Flights At Airport In May

North Central Airlines made a total of 98 flights from the Escanaba airport during May, taking on 175 passengers and discharging 168, according to an airport activities report by Airport Manager Fred Sensiba.

The report, filed with City Manager A. V. Aronson, shows that North Central Airlines by-passed Escanaba nine times because there were no passengers; 10 times because of cross winds; and eight times due to bad weather, in May.

Forty-four transient flights from the airport occurred in May, Sensiba reported.

Rock Resident Killed By Tree

Charles Kaponen, 66, of Rock, was fatally injured yesterday while cutting pulp north of Rock, it was reported by undersheriff C. A. Johnson.

Kaponen had been cutting wood for William Routsala when a dead balsam tree which was standing next to the tree he was cutting was blown over by the wind, pinning him under it and crushing his face with a piece of peeled pulp, according to the sheriff's department.

No one was around him at the time and at 3 p. m., his fellow workers went in search of him. They found him dead and county coroner placed the time of death at 10 a. m.

Born Dec. 25, 1887 at Wasa, Finland, he came to Rock from Ishpeming, and he had resided at Rock for the past 33 years where he farmed and also did woodcutting.

Mr. Kaponen is survived by his invalid wife; one daughter, Mrs. James (Vera) Yeaton, Rock, one brother, John Kaponen of Newberry and one granddaughter.

Friends may call at the Anderson Funeral Home beginning Sunday afternoon.

The body will be removed to the Reinto Hall at Rock Monday noon, and funeral services will be held there at 1 p. m., with Rev. Gustav Lund of the Bethany Lutheran Church, Escanaba, officiating. Finnish remarks will be made by Theodore Warminen. Burial will be made in Rock Cemetery.

Spirited Contest Shapes Up For GOP Nomination For Governor

A RED hot contest is shaping up this year for the Republican nomination for governor. No matter how it comes out on primary election day, Aug. 3, the spirited campaign already under way should prove beneficial for the Republican party in Michigan as a preliminary to the main event in November.

The Republicans have no less than five well known candidates in the field. Topping the list is Owen (Pat) Cleary, the present secretary of state and one of the most potent vote-getters in the Republican ranks. Another is Don S. Leonard, who gained honors for efficiency in heading the Michigan State Police, later police commissioner in Detroit. Still another is D. Hale Brake, state treasurer who is particularly popular in rural counties. Others are Dr. Eugene Keyes of Dearborn who has the unique distinction of being a doctor, a dentist and a lawyer, and State Senator George C. Higgins of Ferndale, a legislative expert on tax matters.

The Republican candidates can be counted on to carry the campaign vigorously and with the possible exception of Dr. Keyes, they will do so in recognition of the fact that it is a party fight to unseat Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams. In other words, the Republican candidates will not devote their primary campaign to smearing the Republican opponents for the nomination.

Because there is a spirited contest for the nomination on the Republican ticket, the candidates can give their party a tremendous impetus for the fall contest against Gov. Williams who is unopposed in the primary.

Of the candidates in the field, Pat Cleary has the most popular appeal from within the ranks of the party leadership. He has played a major role in shaping the party over a period of years. He has proved his executive ability as secretary of state. And he has made a running start for the nomination. He possesses the kind of dynamic personality that is essential to combat the political glamor of the Democratic incumbent.

Hearts Of Iron

WE read that the French are going to replace the relatively short present-day rails on all railroad lines with half-mile-long strands.

The plan has an obvious economy angle, since rail ends take a terrific beating and cut down the life of the whole rail. But we think this has a very sad aspect, too.

There are few people who do not feel a quickening of the pulse at the old clack-clack of a train on the rails. It is the sweet music of motion, infusing us with the drama of travel, hinting at the excitement of distant places.

How are the poor French to hear this insistent theme if the clicks and clacks come only every half mile? Drama can't be sustained by so feeble a pulse.

The French call a railroad a "road of iron." They may decide that the men who made this decision have hearts of iron.

FOOTBALL TICKETS

(Marinette Eagle-Star)

An alumnus has criticized the Board of Regents of the University of Wisconsin for permitting the athletic department to charge $3.25 for football tickets next fall, thus "hogging" 25 of the 60 cents tax formerly going to the federal government.

He's right. When the Congress reduced excise taxes it meant that the person who pays the tax should benefit. It was not intended that an athletic department, operator of a motion picture theatre or amusement of any description should profit from it.

Besides, the athletic department doesn't need the money that badly.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The breach between the two chief allies of the last 15 years is much wider and more serious than is realized outside diplomatic circles.

Great Britain and the United States, who once fought side by side, who once virtually decided world policy together, who over almost two decades were the greatest force for Democratic freedoms, are now in about the same position as the America Firsters hoped they would be before Pearl Harbor.

The days when Washington and London were in constant daily touch, when the trans-Atlantic telephone jingled intermittently between the White House and No. 10 Downing Street, when the United States always could count on the most eloquent orator in the House of Commons, Winston Churchill, to stand up and take on all comers in defense of the country which gave birth to his mother—those days are over.

Just a little over a month ago, as Secretary Dulles and Admiral Radford both were in Europe begging Britain to go along with us on Indo-China, the same doughty prime minister of England rose in Commons to proclaim that his government would not take military action in Indo-China in advance of the Geneva conference.

This meant that the Russian delegates at Geneva simply extended their hotel reservations and settled down to talk as long as possible while Red armies in Indo-China rode on to victory.

AN OLD MAN'S HOPE

The real beginning of the end of the Anglo-American alliance dates back to the Bermuda conference of last December. It involved two colorful personalities, both accustomed to taking the bows on the broad stage of international diplomacy.

Churchill had carefully set the stage in Bermuda as the crowning conference of his long, lusty and distinguished career. Long before Bermuda, he had looked forward with ill-concealed satisfaction to the election of his friend, Dwight Eisenhower, could hardly wait for Ike to take office to fly to New York to get back on an intimate basis with the new President of the United States.

The old days when he lounged around FDR's White House when he flapped down the White House corridor in loose slippers with a large crimson and gold kimono draped over his protruding tummy, would soon be back again.

Eisenhower he had known well during the war. And he recalled, among other things, Ike's famous Guild hall speech when he proclaimed the indivisible partnership of England and America. So the old man figured that the wartime alliance, weakened under Truman and Atlee, would soon be reinvigorated.

One of the first things Churchill broached to the new President of the United States was a big three conference between himself, Eisenhower and Stalin. But Ike asked for time to get adjusted in his new office. Then Stalin died. Later Churchill made a new suggestion that he and Eisenhower get together with the new leader of Russia, Malenkov, and see if they could not patch up the woes of the world.

AN OLD MAN'S PRIDE

But the old man persisted. This was a time, he argued, when the world would either go forward toward war or could erect a milestone for peace. He even sounded out the Russian ambassador in London, who enthusiastically proposed that the big three conference be held in Stockholm.

Churchill's big three proposal, of course, was somewhat in contrast to his earlier anti-Russian policies, as will be shown in a later column. At any rate, Eisenhower again said no.

Finally, as a compromise, it was agreed that the two men, with Premier Laniel of France, should meet in Bermuda to discuss preliminary problems which might later lead to a meeting with Malenkov.

So the aging prime minister flew to Bermuda to prepare for the big event. The sleepy little island was decked out in its regal best. Newspapers descended from most of the free world. The three statesmen arrived, sat down, discussed.

But suddenly, after only three scant days of discussion, Eisenhower announced that he was flying to New York to address the United Nations. Churchill was left dejected and alone.

It almost broke the old man's heart. Churchill wept copiously in Bermuda. And he has wept many times since as he has talked to friends in London about the way his friend Eisenhower deserted him.

BRITISH BITTERNESS

Churchill, himself a master international showman, later discovered that Eisenhower had planned his U. N. speech well in advance, had planned in advance to break up the Bermuda conference. He also discovered that C. D. Jackson, publisher of Fortune magazine and a student of New York's most adroit huckstering techniques, had written the U. N. speech on atomic energy and planned the dramatic flight to New York in order to get Ike out of a possible dead-end street at Bermuda.

The U. N. speech was, of course, a master stroke in the international drama of diplomacy used against a past master of the same techniques. But you don't use those techniques against an old friend of 79 who had planned the Bermuda conference as the crowning climax of his long career.

Malenkov Fades; Khrushchev Is Man To Watch In Russia

By LEON DENNEN

GENEVA — (NEA) — Another falling-out among the top Red leaders is reported by satellite sources in Geneva.

Chief protagonists in the renewed struggle for Stalin's vacant throne are said to be Premier Georgi Malenkov and Nikita S. Khrushchev, ruthless 60-year-old boss of Russia's Communist Party.

Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov, presently chairing Red China's Chou En-lai at the Geneva conference, is no longer a serious contender for the late dictator's mantle, the Red sources reveal.

Molotov still holds officially the No. 2 spot in the hierarchy of Soviet rulers. However, during the recent Berlin talks it became clear—as reported by this correspondent—that this humorless man whom Lenin once called the best filling clerk in Russia was waging a losing battle in the Kremlin's struggle for power.

Molotov's political star is now on the wane. In Russia and throughout the Red underworld he has been eclipsed by the younger, tougher Khrushchev.

Is Nikita Khrushchev being groomed by the Russifiers—the Russia-firsters—in the party and the Red Army to replace the younger and more internationalist-minded Malenkov as boss of the Soviet empire?

Enough facts are now known to permit an assessment of Khrushchev's bid for power.

The former shepherd from Kalinovka has trump cards in his ruthless hands which Malenkov seems to lack. Khrushchev's political career, in many respects, parallels that of Stalin.

His rise in the party ranks, though not spectacular, has been steady. Also, like Stalin, Khrushchev is above all a narrow-minded and ruthless party wheelhorse who knows intimately the workings of the Communist machine.

As party chief, Khrushchev wields vast patronage powers—powers employed effectively by Stalin in his bloody climb to absolute power. He is also reported to have the backing of the Red Army marshals and generals.

According to the satellite sources, Khrushchev was the leader of the group of Russifiers that asked for the head of the non-Russian, the Georgian Lavrenti Beria, former all-powerful chief of the secret police. Another leader of the group was Marshal Gregory Zhukov.

The actual coup which led to Beria's execution was carried out by General Moskalenko, military commander of Moscow and Khrushchev's former henchman in the Ukraine.

Faction fights behind the Iron Curtain are a deadly business. It would be unwise to forecast the final outcome. But one thing is now abundantly clear: The dramatic struggle which followed Stalin's death is still unfinished in the Kremlin.

Khrushchev's star has been rising in recent weeks. In the race for the throne left vacant by the dead dictator he must be included among the favorites.

By CLINT DUNATHAN

SLIPPING AWAY—Many articles and records of historical significance to the Delta County area are now in museums at Ann Arbor, Lansing, Green Bay and Milwaukee.

Most of these items should have been preserved for the educational benefit they would provide the people of this community. While it is well that they have been preserved, it is nevertheless unfortunate they are now displayed elsewhere than in this community.

The story of the "lost" historical records and articles has been told many times. Yet there seems little hope that the outgoing trend will be halted. For there is now no local museum where they can be preserved or exhibited.

The answer to the problem is, of course, for Delta County residents to finance at least a safe and fire-proof storage facility for such articles. The museum can be a later project.

SOME RETRIEVED—The Delta County Historical Society, an organization that has no "home" and whose "archives" are a couple filing cabinets loaned through the courtesy of Carnegie Library in Escanaba, has done much to collect and keep historically significant articles.

Mrs. George Jensen, one of the Historical Society's directors and a member of its collections committee, recently presented to the Society photographs of leading members of two families prominent in civic and business affairs of the community.

She had obtained them after they had been sold at auction along with other effects of the household following the deaths of the older members of the families.

One set of pictures had been purchased by a Green Bay woman who wanted the frames. The purchaser saw no value in the photographs, of course, and Mrs. Jensen bought them for a few pennies.

OTHERS NEVER FOUND — Certain other articles, perhaps of lesser or greater value, depending on the viewpoint, have been lost to this community for many years. It is doubtful they will ever be located or returned here.

Among such articles are the four silver crosses found many years ago at Flat Rock on the bank of the Escanaba River. From the description (which is all that remains) they would appear to be crosses lost on that spot by a Jesuit missionary perhaps three centuries ago.

They were turned over to an Escanaba individual, now dead for a number of years, and were seen by several persons after that. They then disappeared as completely as if they had been reclaimed by the earth that had so long hidden them on the river bank.

Possibly they are now in some private museum or in the collection of a person who may or may not recognize their historical value. Certainly, however, they are lost to Delta County, where they were found and where they should have most appropriately remained.

ENGINEERING GENIUS—The mystery of the missing crosses is no more intriguing than another question, currently confronting a committee of the Delta County and Marquette County Historical Societies.

Did Charles T. Harvey, nationally famous engineer of the 1860-90 period in American history, design the first ore dock built at Escanaba?

It is a matter of record that Harvey engineered the construction of the first lock at Sault Ste. Marie and the first elevated railway in New York City.

And there is some evidence to indicate that in the early 1860's Harvey constructed a plank road between Escanaba and Marquette. At least it is mentioned in some historical accounts.

But did the famed engineer design and supervise construction of the first ore dock at Escanaba in 1863-64?

Anyone who has information that would help answer the question is asked to contact Charles Folio, president of the Delta County Historical Society.

The Historical Society's interest is more than academic. In cooperation with the Marquette Historical Society a display (including if possible a replica of the first ore dock built at Escanaba) is to be set up at the U. P. State Fair this year.

If the question can be answered—to the satisfaction of the historians—the information would add tremendously to the effectiveness of the display.

The Doctor Says...

Vitamin B-6 Is Important Factor in Infant Feeding

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

A fascinating story of a medical mystery has just come to my attention. It started with the rather alarming experience of a physician who was called to see a number of infants about two months old who were afflicted with convulsive seizures.

All of these infants were receiving the same commercial preparation of modified cow's milk rather than mother's milk. When they were given some other preparation the convulsions promptly ceased.

IT SOON became apparent that other physicians were seeing babies from about 6 weeks to 4 months old with similar convulsive seizures and that all of the infants had been fed on the same preparation. It was a startling and rather alarming situation.

The problem promptly came to the attention of the Division of Nutrition of the U. S. Food and Drug Administration, and particularly to that of Dr. O. L. Kline in that division.

He quickly recognized the similarity of the convulsions in these small children to that which occurred in young rats who were fed a diet deficient in vitamin B-6 in experiments which he and others had conducted some years before.

THE NEXT step was to see what effect the addition of vitamin B-6 to the diet of these infants would have. Soon after this step was decided on, an infant was admitted to the University Hospital, the State University of Iowa. This infant seemed a suitable candidate for this study.

The child was given a single injection of vitamin B-6. Although feeding was continued with the same batch of commercially modified cow's milk for several days, no further convulsions occurred.

A great many other studies on this curious situation have already been conducted. It was found, for example, that the vitamin B-6 content of the particular commercial preparation was a little less than half that in fresh human milk.

THE SITUATION, of course, has been remedied and was no one's fault in the first place. But the whole experience has served to concentrate increased attention on the importance of vitamin B-6 in infant feeding in the prevention of convulsions.

It has also emphasized the possible role of this vitamin in other conditions, and the importance of other vitamins as well.

One other point may be brought out from this remarkable event: Human milk for human infants remains the best food when possible, although one need have no unnecessary fears concerning modified cow's milk formulas because of this one unfortunate episode.

Seniors Present Unusual Tableau

"Foundations for Freedom": unity, liberty, equality and fraternity, was the theme of an impressive tableau presented by the class of 1954 at the 73rd annual commencement program of Escanaba Senior High School Thursday night at the William W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium.

Taking the principal parts in the production, under the direction of John Romstad, were Janet Costley as "Vision" and Mary Baker as "Learning". They demonstrated how education and vision prepare an individual to set forth in the adult world and cope with its problems.

Ideas established in the production were: that all men should live together in peace and love; teach the people the truth and the truth shall reign; to mind a world it is necessary to have a strong body; and in a new world there should be no classes.

During the tableau, a trumpet solo, "Tenderly" was played by Jon Prass.

Most effective to the audience was the finale. The entire cast was assembled on stage before church window props with the foundations of freedom written out on arranged blocks. Centering the stage in the background were "Vision," holding a torch and "Learning." As the curtain closed, the American flag was lowered in the background and the cast sang "America."

During the entire production, the lighting effects were most ably handled. Mrs. Alice Harbarger directed the music.

Excerpts from Richard Wagner's operas, arranged by R. L. Weaver, were played by the Escanaba High School Orchestra with Robert S. Meyer as their director between the tableau and the conferring of diplomas.

Due to the absence of Claude J. Tobin Jr. president of the board of education, Charles Folio, the board's vice president, was accorded the honor of presenting the diplomas. John A. Lemmer, superintendent of schools, presented the 1954 graduates, and the Rev. Gustav Lund, pastor of the Bethany Lutheran Church, offered benediction.

Britain Sells Goods To Communist China

LONDON (AP)—Britain has tentatively okayed the sale to Communist China of thousands of items, including light machinery, medical supplies and scientific instruments. All were described officially as nonstrategic goods.

The list of permitted items was published Thursday night in the official Board of Trade Journal. The announcement emphasized, however, that the government retains the final say in the licensing of even these goods for shipment to China.

On the list were manufacturing equipment of many kinds, light vehicles and trucks, rubber goods, plastics and food.

Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved higher today under the influence of broadening demand.

It was the second straight day of recovery following two days of sharp reaction. The upward movement was not very extensive nor was much trading enthusiasm aroused by the rising prices.

Gains went to between one and two points occasionally. Losses were almost entirely below a point. Business ran at a pace a little under Thursday's low 1,610,000 shares.

Stocks gaining ground included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Schenley Industries, American Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Cities Service, Texas Pacific Land Trust, and General Dynamics.

U. S. government bonds were mostly unchanged.

Vernon J. Brown Named To Civil Service Agency

LANSING (AP)—Vernon J. Brown of Mason, "grand old man" of the Michigan Republican party, was appointed to the State Civil Service Commission by Gov. Williams Thursday.

The appointment was to succeed Lester J. Moll of Detroit, resigned, for a term expiring next Dec. 31.

The Civil Service Commission has been widely criticized for policy decisions which complicated state government operation, such as its last-minute decision to raise state employees pay this year after the budget had been set.

Williams reappointed Mrs. Helen Berthelot of Detroit, Mark J. Crawford of Coldwater, Edwin J. Smith of Detroit and Harry H. Wright of Lawrence to the Board of Managers of the State Fair.

Deer And Airplane Highway Hazards East Of Manistique

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)—An airplane and two deer gave motorists a bad time on US2 Wednesday night.

A two-seater plane piloted by John N. Bindon of Saginaw made an emergency landing on the highway eight miles east of Manistique.

As the craft touched down, Bindon spotted a car coming the opposite direction. He swerved the plane to the side of the road. His wing-tip touched the side view mirror of the passing car.

The motorist kept going. Neither Bindon nor his wife was injured. Erman J. Jenks of Sault Ste. Marie was plagued by two deer. The animals leaped in front of his car inside the city limits. One small buck was injured and had to be destroyed. The other deer escaped injury.

Wisconsin Solon Ready To Wind Up Tiff With Army

told Secretary of the Army Stevens that Roy M. Cohn thought G. David Schine "should be a general and work from a penthouse of the Waldorf."

McCarthy, under cross examination in the Army-McCarthy hearings, said he was "ribbing" Stevens. A monitored telephone conversation, introduced earlier in the hearings, disclosed that McCarthy made the statement to Stevens a few days after Schine was drafted into the Army on Nov. 3.

McCarthy also told Stevens that Cohn was "completely unreasonable" about Schine, and that maybe Schine could be given weekends off from the Army "so his girls won't get too lonesome."

In explanation of this statement, McCarthy said Cohn, chief counsel to his investigations subcommittee, was insistent that Schine's help was needed in preparing subcommittee reports.

McCarthy said he himself felt Schine could wind up his committee work by spending a couple of weekends a month on the work.

"However, Roy was right," McCarthy said.

Schine, wealthy New Yorker and close friend of Cohn, was an unpaid consultant to the McCarthy subcommittee until he was drafted.

CONTEMPT ALLEGED

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) today demanded that the Senate oust Sen. McCarthy as chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee and its parent group unless McCarthy "purge himself of contempt" and answer charges made against him in 1952.

Flanders said in a proposed Senate speech that McCarthy had treated "with contempt" a three-man subcommittee set up in 1952 to investigate charges against McCarthy by former Sen. Benton (D-Conn.) and countercharges of McCarthy.

The Vermont senator, who criticized McCarthy in two previous Senate speeches, noted that the 1952 subcommittee formally reported it could not finally rule on the charges raised against him. Its report said the situation left unanswered such questions as whether McCarthy had used for his own benefit some of the money contributed to his fight against communism and whether McCarthy had improperly accepted a $10,000 fee from a housing firm for a booklet he wrote.

This became apparent in the wake of two developments in Washington this week.

The U. S. Supreme Court Monday cleared the way for the St. Lawrence River power project, which will be developed as a joint operation by the State of New York and Canada's Province of Ontario. The project will be an integral part of the seaway plan for permitting ocean-going ships to enter the Great Lakes.

The following day the Senate Public Works Committee voted to let the Federal Power Commission decide whether the State of New York or a group of private utilities should develop a huge hydro-electric project at Niagara Falls, 200 miles southwest of the St. Lawrence construction.

Upon completion, the two power programs will have the effect of an economic shot in the arm for the northeastern United States by reducing the differential between the cost of electricity in the region and other parts of the country.

Work on the 600-million dollar St. Lawrence power project will get under way early this summer. Engineers estimate that within four or five years, the St. Lawrence will be harnessed to produce 12 billion kilowatt-hours of hydro power annually, more than the output of either Hoover or Grand Coulee dams. The energy will be divided equally between the hydro-electric power commission of Ontario and the New York Power Authority.

John E. Burton, a member of the authority, says the St. Lawrence plants will make possible a cut of 60 million dollars a year in the bills of electricity users of the state, because of low production costs. An integrated power pool will send part of the electricity into the New England states, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Armed Kidnap Of Woman Trained By Arizona Posse

p.m. Wednesday. A man's voice told him:

"Know where Apache Junction is? You can pick up your golf clubs at the Chevron service station. Ed's Place, one-half mile from there. You will find a note."

Smith said his clubs had been in the trunk of his wife's car. He telephoned home, learned his wife was not there and notified police, was let out when they reached the mountains.

Smith's first information that his wife had been kidnaped came in a telephone call to his office at 4:40

The ransom note told Smith to go to Apache Junction, 32 miles east of Phoenix, at 2 p. m. Thursday and telephone his home for instructions. When he called, the instructions in the bouquet note were given him.

Shoots Overhead

Smith told officers he drove as directed and found a note under a rock monument at the highway's edge, 8 1/2 miles southeast of the junction. It directed him up a dirt road to another pile of rocks. There he found another note which told him to get out and walk and take the money with him.

Smith said that after walking about four miles he heard

Artificial Breeders Association Will Hold Annual Meeting At Cornell Monday Night

By JOSEPH HEIRMAN
(County Agricultural Agent)

Delta county farmers will hold their annual meeting of the Artificial Breeders Association Monday evening at the Cornell Township starting at 8 p. m. Clarence Anderson of Bark River, the president of the association, will preside.

A well rounded program has been prepared for the meeting by the directors. Mr. C. L. Blakeslee of the American Breeders Service will discuss the importance of the artificial breeding program and illustrate his talk with movies. Archie Dubord, the secretary-treasurer of the local organization, will make a financial report on the business transacted during the past year.

The election of two directors will also be conducted at the meeting. To conclude the program, a comedy movie will show how a farmer learns to farm the hard way. Valuable prizes will also be given to those who hold lucky numbers. Coffee, and doughnuts will be served following adjournment.

The importance of testing Production

The farmers who are in a production testing program know how good or bad each dairy cow is in the herd. By culling out the poor producers, one can save money at present milk prices. Recent figures released by the Agricultural Economics Department of Michigan State College show that a cow producing 6,000 pounds of milk per year will return 5c per hour of labor if the milk sells at 85c per pound of butterfat. A cow producing 1,200 pounds of milk selling at the same price will return over $1.00 per hour for labor. Meat prices are rather stable now and the outlook is for no great changes in the future. It is therefore wise to dispose of low producing cows at this time.

There are 111 testing associations in the state with 2100 herds in the program. The average butterfat production of all the cows in these herds is 378 pounds of butterfat. This adds up to about 11,000 pounds of 3.5 milk. The average butterfat production per cow in all herds in Michigan is about 240 pounds of butterfat. This means one thing, we have a large number of boarders.

Fly Control

Farmers interested in fly control in the dairy barn can use malathion on walls and ceiling. The chemical comes as a liquid or a powder. If you use the 25% wettable powder put one pound in two and one half gallons of water. If you use the liquid form, one cup in two and one half gallons of water will give the right strength of solution. Do not use on the animals. The residue of this chemical should last two or three weeks. If you want to spray the cows for fly control you will have to use one of the regular fly sprays that have been used in the past years. D. D. T. cannot be used on dairy cows.

Stable Prices Caused Spud Production Boom

EAST LANSING—Agricultural economists from Michigan and 11 other states have concluded that stable prices rather than high prices caused the 1942-50 boom in potato production.

Potato growers in Michigan, Maine, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota and Wisconsin were interviewed. The price support study is presented in North Central Regional Publication No. 43, "Price Supports and the Potato Industry."

Most farmers expressed a preference for an assured price at a reasonable level to high and low price chances. Production in the 1942-50 period was greater than it would have been under a free market, the group of economists said, and the average price was lower.

Elimination of price risks encouraged growers to increase acreages, use more fertilizer and better seed and to adopt high-production practices. Small producers dropped out, claim the bulletin authors, including Vernon L. Sorenson of Michigan State College. They suggest a policy that would include a production goal before planting starts each year and supplying of growers with production guides and price estimates.

EAST LANSING—Don't use your chimney as an anchor for your TV aerial, warns the Michigan Rural Safety Council. As the aerial sways in the wind it will crack the cement of the chimney and may produce a fire hazard. Another warning, provide a suitable outside grounding for the TV antenna so the lightning is conducted to the ground instead of into the house.

Safety Features In Farm Equipment Are Very Important

Repairs, reputation and requirements are the "three R's" in buying farm equipment, reminds George Amundson, veteran extension agricultural engineer at Michigan State College.

The service a farmer can expect and the available parts in a profit - threatening breakdown mean more than a brand name. Reputations of the manufacturer and dealer mean much. A small piece of equipment proves more expensive than a large one if it cannot handle the farm job when the chips are down.

Michigan farmers who spend about $100 per acre of crops on farm machinery each year can afford to spend a little time checking their value, suggests Amundson. Safety features are important, he notes.

The best equipment in the world cannot help you if another man has it when you need it most. Are short on labor, have a crop spoiling or must finish one job so you can get on to the next.

REA Power Requirements Will Double

Power requirements of electric systems financed by the Rural Electrification Administration will nearly double by 1963 and more than triple by 1975, USDA reports.

In 1953 REA borrower systems had an input of 14 billion kilowatt hours. In 1963 this is expected to reach 27.5 billion kwh and in 1975, 45 billion kwh.

The estimates are part of a study instituted by Ancher Nelson, REA administrator, of future power needs and resources in order that plans can be made for meeting the farm electric load growth.

Mr. Nelson explained that the agency is looking into the future to get facts which will be needed in studying such possibilities as interconnections of existing power sources, new generation facilities, and the use of atomic energy for power production.

In the past, the power needs of REA-financed electric systems have doubled about every four years. This rapid growth was due largely to new consumers coming on the lines. In the future, greater usage by present consumers is expected to be the principal factor in the increased demand for power.

Increase Shown In Fertilizer

Delta county farmers helped boost Michigan's 1953 fertilizer use to 610,601 tons, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in a statement based on compilations by Michigan State College's soils science department. This was a statewide increase of 19,680 tons compared to 1952 and represented the highest total in recent years.

The committee reports that 3-12-12 led all other fertilizer grades with total sales of 232,706 tons to Michigan farmers last year. Next in popularity was 4-16-16, which accounted for 88,603 tons. Then came 3-18-9 with 42,017 tons, 0-20-20 with 25,207 tons and 10-10-10 with 19,525 tons.

Michigan State College's soil science department points out that 97 per cent of the total tonnage of mixed fertilizer used on Michigan farms last year included grades or ratios recommended by the department.

The steady rise in Michigan's fertilizer use in recent years, says the committee, has been due to an increasing realization by farmers that plant food not only helps them grow more corn per acre, extra tons of hay and higher yields of small grains, but it enables them to cut production costs and boost profits as well.

Coin-Operated Milk Dispensers Popular

NEW YORK—Coin-operated machines that dispense milk in quart containers have been installed at several hundred Midwest gasoline stations and are proving to be a big attraction to motorists, reports National Petroleum News, McGraw-Hill publication.

The popularity of the machines is especially evident in areas where there are few markets, or where shops are closed evenings and Sundays, the magazine says.

Plow faster, easier... for less money!

DEARBORN ECONOMY PLOWS give you furrows to be proud of... at a price you'll like

"Economy" is this plow's middle name. It's economical to buy, to keep in shape, and to maintain. Gone are tongue, levers, clutch, coil springs and shear pins—pounds upon pounds of parts you don't have to pay for, lift, lug, lubricate or replace. Yet it does all a good plow is supposed to do! Available in 1, 2 and 3-bottom sizes.

The Ford Tractor's rear wheels become wheels for this plow, so plow "suck" or down-pull adds to pulling traction.

"Razor Blade" Shares Save You Money

These shares are so low-priced you discard dull ones—no costly resharpening. "Razor Blade" shares have shown savings as high as $40.00 per 100 acres plowed, on share costs alone.

Not everyone who has to tell to the judge offers gripes and alibis. In Judge E. J. Doyle's mail Thursday was a letter from a downstate resident accompanying his fine and remittance for a traffic violation.

He states in part, "It was a good lesson. One I shall never forget. Before we got home we passed the scene of a horrible accident. It could have been me." He also complimented Trooper Carl Scales, of the Manistique state police force, for his courtesy.

THE GONE GREATS

Dedication Of Softball Field Will Be Colorful

A semi-formal program, in keeping with Flag Day, will feature the flag raising ceremony and turning on of lights at the new softball diamond at Central Park next Monday evening.

A number of local organizations will participate in the program which will follow immediately after a game between the Ford and the Paper Mill teams. The game will begin at 7.

A new 40-foot flagmast has already been set up at the grounds and the flag for it, donated by the Manistique Elks Lodge, will be presented by a delegation from that organization. The American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps, will perform and pass in review along with massed colors of both the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars followed by Boy and Girl Scout troops, 200 strong, each member carrying a flag.

The flag raising proper, will be performed by members of Scout Troop 460 under the direction of Assistant Scoutmaster Leo Rivard.

With the completion of this, on a game between Christy's and Top O' Lakes teams will begin.

Jehovah Witnesses From Local Area Attend Assembly

Arvid Carlson, presiding minister of the Manistique congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, returned recently from a circuit assembly of that organization at Rhinelander, Wis. More than 700 members of that organization from all parts of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan were present at the three day session.

Mr. Carlson reports that the outstanding event of the meeting was a talk by A. A. Catanazaro, district representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, who in his talk discussed the prediction of the nearness to the end of the world. "Why should God destroy the world just because some rats got into it?" he said in the course of his address.

Manistique Ace Pitcher Is Still In Top Form

Norman Jahn, Manistique star athlete of a couple of years ago, is keeping in trim and his work is being given careful scrutiny by a big league scout.

A news report from Norfolk, Va., where he is serving in the navy, has this to say concerning his part in a recent game played there.

"Norman Jahn pitched a three hit ball game at Dunn Field, Norfolk, as his team the Brooks won over the Portsmouth Phils, a top team of the Portsmouth City League, by a score of 6 to 2. His team collected 7 hits, including three home runs.

"Jahn was never in trouble as he combined several curves with a blazing fast ball; he struck out 12 batters and had the Phils hitless until the seventh inning when two singles and a walk scored the only earned run the visitors had.

Unknown to Norman, his manager Lynn D. Borden, had Joe Pastore, a Chicago White Sox scout, watching him from start to finish.

Norman will be home shortly on a 20-day leave. While here he will play with Cooks in the Bay de Noc League. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Jahn, 519 Cherry St.

Athletics Last Hope For Detroit Tigers On Sad Road Tour

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The struggling Detroit Tigers moved in today hopeful of regaining some prestige at the expense of the last place Philadelphia Athletics on the last stop of a sad road tour.

The Tigers bowed for the 12th time in 17 games of the trip Thursday, losing to the New York Yankees 9-5 and falling below the .500 mark for the first time this season.

Three Yankee runs — all of them off Ralph Branca the "jinx homer" man — spelled the difference as New York took the odd game of the series.

Five-Game Series

Today's meeting with the Athletics is a two-night doubleheader. Dick Weik (0-1) and Steve Gromek (7-5) were Detroit's pitching choices.

Manager Fred Hutchinson's boys must do something against the lowly A's (17-33) or give up almost all present claim to distinction. It is a five-game series.

Yogi Berra, Bob Brown and Mickey Mantle were the Yankee bad men against Detroit. Each hit his homer off Branca, who lost his first game, in the role of relief, against three victories.

The homers brought to 50 the number which have been hit off Tiger pitchers in 49 games.

About all that cheered Detroit was Frank House's fourth home run and two more hits by Harvey Kuenn. Kuenn's blows gave him an impressive record of nine hits in 12 times up in the Yankee series.

Tied In Fourth

New York chased starter Al Aber in the first with three runs but the Tigers tied it in the fourth off Jim McDonald on two walks and singles by Ray Boone, Al Kaline and Kuenn.

The roof started to fall in the fifth. Berra hit his homer, his ninth. In the sixth Brown hit his first, with a man on base, and Mantle followed with his 11th.

By this time Branca was done. But though the Tigers got two in the seventh on House's homer scoring Kuenn ahead of him, the Yanks picked off another pair off Bob Miller in their half.

Giardello Takes On Bobby Jones

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—A week ago the news of a "fight fix" attempt startled the nation. Tonight that fight is to be held at Madison Square Garden with Joey Giardello boxing Bobby Jones.

Jones turned down a reported $15,000 bribe, allegedly offered by heavyweight Clarence Henry, to "fix" the Giardello fight and the district attorney's office began an investigation. For a week a detective has been on 24-hour duty as Jones' bodyguard.

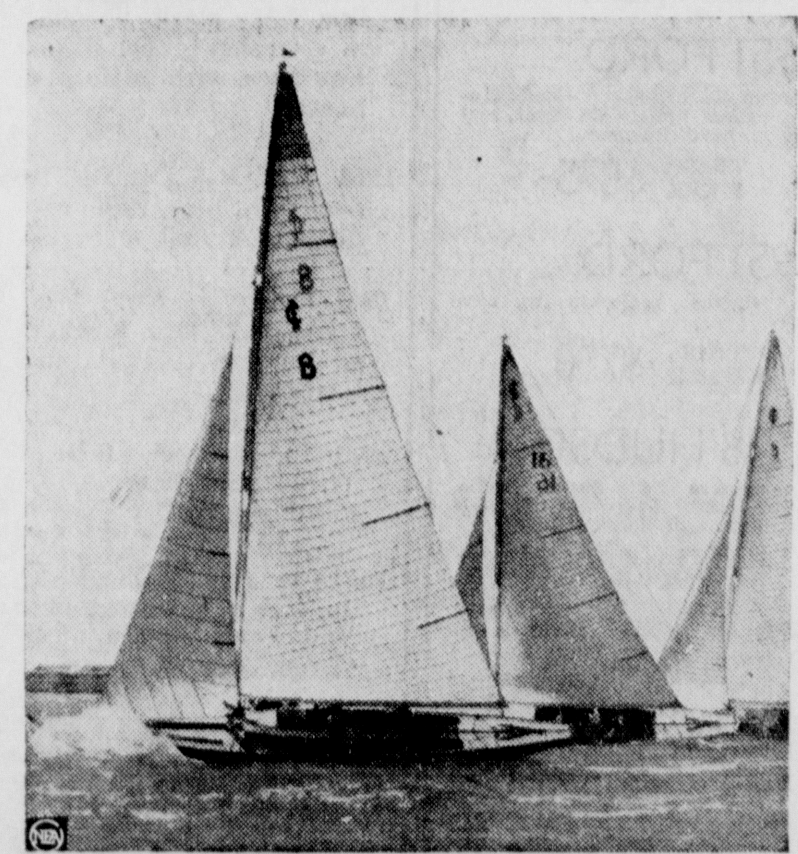

The 10 - round middleweight match, scheduled for 8 p. m. (CST) will be carried on network radio (ABC) and television (NBC).

Jones attracted little attention until he upset Gil Turner in March and stopped him in a rematch.

Hot Chicago Sox Tangle With Yanks In Four-Game Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The white hot Chicago White Sox, leading the American League by a game and a half, came into Yankee Stadium tonight for a four game series with the champion New York Yankees.

The White Sox have won 16 of their last 19 games, the last seven in a row. But a lot of visiting winning streaks have become memories in Yankee Stadium.

The two teams have met four times this year. New York has won three. Every one of the games was decided by a single run.

Paul Richards' hustlers lost two in a row to the Yankees in Chicago. The White Sox led after seven innings in each game only to get beaten 4-3 and 3-2.

Chicago 6-0 and Fred Baczewski of Cincinnati pitched his second straight shutout, 6-0 over Pittsburgh.

Braves Still Scoreless

New York pitchers stretched Milwaukee's string of scoreless innings to 25, and the Giants never threatened until Taylor's home run. They had only four hits off Gene Conley and hadn't moved a man past second. A brilliant throw by Willie Mays caught Henry Aaron trying to score for the Braves after a fly ball in the seventh.

The Dodgers broke a two-game slump with a 13-hit attack on Vic Raschi and Stu Miller. The loss was Raschi's second straight after winning his first five in the National League.

Steve Ridzik and Jim Konstanty combined for the Philadelphia shut out over the Cubs. Ridzik left with the bases loaded in the fifth and Konstanty finished up for his second victory.

The Pirates got to Fred Baczewski for 11 singles but couldn't score. The Cincinnati attack included homers by Gus Bell and Jim Greengrass.

Washington jumped on Bob Lemon of Cleveland for five runs in the third inning, three of them coming after George Strickland threw wild on a potential double-play ball. Dean Stone, a rookie, won his fourth straight for the Senators.

Making it through to the second round unbeaten were Michigan State, the powerful hitting bunch of Big Ten champions, set to tangle with Arizona's well-balanced club at 6 p. m. (CST) and Missouri and little Rollins College, both of whom base their hopes on strong pitching and tight defenses. They meet at 8 p. m.

Up for the test of survival earlier today were Thursday's losers — Massachusetts vs Oregon and Oklahoma A. and M. vs Lafayette. The losers will be through.

Michigan State, one of the best hitting teams in Big Ten conference history, walloped Massachusetts, 16-5, and hit three home runs that accounted for nine runs.

The long ball was still the thing in the third game when Rollins had to go 11 innings to whip Oklahoma A. and M. 9 to 5. Pitcher Bill Cary of Rollins was just one strike away from a regulation 5-3 win when he served up a fast ball that Jim Wollard of the Aggies hit 360 feet over the left center field wall with one man on to tie the score. In the 11th, Rollins' Bob Machardy hit a triple after relief pitcher J. B. White had loaded the bases with walks.

The winning Missouri run in a 5-3 victory over Lafayette came in on a sacrifice fly after two Roger Gordon, Jerry Schoonmaker the top Missouri hitter, hit the fly. Later he tripled and scored an insurance run on George Gleason's double.

Michigan State, one of the best hitting teams in Big Ten conference history, walloped Massachusetts, 16-5, and hit three home runs that accounted for nine runs.

The long ball was still the thing in the third game when Rollins had to go 11 innings to whip Oklahoma A. and M. 9 to 5. Pitcher Bill Cary of Rollins was just one strike away from a regulation 5-3 win when he served up a fast ball that Jim Wollard of the Aggies hit 360 feet over the left center field wall with one man on to tie the score. In the 11th, Rollins' Bob Machardy hit a triple after relief pitcher J. B. White had loaded the bases with walks.

The winning Missouri run in a 5-3 victory over Lafayette came in on a sacrifice fly after two Roger Gordon, Jerry Schoonmaker the top Missouri hitter, hit the fly. Later he tripled and scored an insurance run on George Gleason's double.

Up for the test of survival earlier today were Thursday's losers — Massachusetts vs Oregon and Oklahoma A. and M. vs Lafayette. The losers will be through.

Ike Leaves Runner Stranded But Gets Final Score Straight

By FRANK ECK
How well does President Eisenhower keep a baseball box score? On opening day, Ike visited Griffith Stadium in Washington to see Bucky Harris' team beat Casey Stengel's champion Yankees. The chief executive, who played some baseball at West Point, also saw a game on May 29.

President Eisenhower, an avid baseball fan and golfer, records his game play-by-play.

Single—+ Double—++
Home Run—#
In the first inning the Senators went down in order. Yost grounded out, short to first. Ike notes the play as 6 to 3. That is the mark of a good scorer. Some fellows from the old school call the shortstop 5 but all big time baseball writers call all shortstops 6.

Ike might save time on strike-

Also, in the ninth inning when the Yankees threatened pitcher Chuck Stobbs, Sonny Dixon came to the rescue with two out. Dixon eventually became the winning pitcher. But Ike never noted Dixon's appearance in the game—at least not for the (scorecard) record.

However, when one carefully examines all the evidence as to hits and how many batters went to the plate in each inning, it can be seen that Ike knows a lot about our national game.

If you care to keep score like Ike here are some of his symbols: Strikeout—SO.
Base on Balls—W.
Sacrifice Bunt—SH.
Fielder's Choice—FC.
Force Out—FO.
Fly to Center—FO8.

WASHINGTON	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	ab	r	h	bi
1 Yost	35	6	3	3	W
4 Umphrey	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
3 Vernon	1b	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
2 Sievers	lf	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
7 Busby	cf	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
5 Runnels	ss	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
12 Terwilliger	2b	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0

Here is Ike's Washington half of the presidential scorecard. It's a lot neater than cards kept by most fans.

outs. Instead of SO he could K the culprit who fans, as he writers do. For a single he could use a single dash and two dashes for a double. His symbol (+) for a home run resembles a tie-tac-toe box, but it's not a bad idea since all home runs look alike in the box score.

All in all, Ike knows what the score is, even if technically he still has Yost on first base.

Tulsa Golfer Gets Two Holes-In-One

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—A Tulsa University golfer scored two holes in one during the same 18-hole round at the Hot Springs Country Club Thursday.

Thomas Barker, 20, of Hot Springs, aced the No. 3, 156-yard hole with an eight iron, and the 160-yard, No. 15 using a seven iron.

Barker had a one-under-par 71.

One-Armed Player, 14, Even Amazes Coach

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Some boys might have quit. But 14-year-old Ken Burdick went to bat with only one arm.

Freckle-faced Ken plays right field for San Juan High School's junior varsity baseball team and has a .333 batting average.

He does it all with his left arm. He lost his right in a ski tow accident six years ago. It was amputated just below the shoulder.

Coach Len Frizzi was amazed when Ken, a slender youth, turned out.

"I didn't know just what to do," he recalls. "I realized the boy had plenty of courage. I figured he wouldn't make the club, but perhaps could work in as manager."

But Ken began hitting well and Frizzi found he had "a fine eye." Of that eye, his coach says: "I'm not exaggerating when I say he can judge a pitch at the plate better than anybody on the JV squad and as well as any varsity player."

He is a modest boy, crediting his brother, Gary, a second baseman on the varsity, for helping him so much.

"Gary played catch with me and helped me get into sandlot games," he says. "Because of that I was able to play."

There again, he amazes Coach Frizzi. He catches the ball, rolls it into the crook of his elbow

Santee Favored Against Barthel

By BOB MYERS
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Confident Wes Santee of Kansas and a cautious Josy Barthel of Luxembourg duel at one mile in Memorial Coliseum tonight. In their first meeting, Santee, America's premier miler, was favored to defeat the 1,500-meter champion of the 1952 Olympic Games.

Santee, for one, felt that he might match or break the epic record of 3:59.4 set last May 6 at Oxford by England's Roger Bannister, if all conditions are right.

The race is a special event of the Southern Pacific AAU district track and field meet. Entered against the headliners, were Sture Landqvist of Sweden and Bjorn Begerud of Norway.

Just last Friday at nearby Compton, the 22-year-old Kansan ran the second fastest mile in history—4:00.6—for a new American record.
